Born into an artistic family, Dai Yi began her piano studies at the age of five. As a child, she studied at the Shanghai Music Middle School of Music, which is affiliated with the Shanghai Conservatory of Music. Currently, she is pursuing a piano performance degree on scholarship under Dr. Paul Wyse at The Crane School of Music SUNY Potsdam.

Dai Yi maintains a vast piano repertoire and has achieved many accolades. She was first place winner of the NYSMTA Empire State Piano Competition in 2008. She has performed in master classes with pianists such as Veronica Jochum and Victoria Mushkatkol, and she recently competed at the Julia Crane International Piano Competition. Dai Yi also has given performances in many places in China and the US, including Whiteface Lodge in Lake Placid, NY, and the Cabin Concert, sponsored by Principle of Arts Center in Old Forge, NY. She performed the complete Chopin Etudes and Preludes with her colleagues in Syracuse, Long Island, Binghamton and other major cities, in celebration of the 200th anniversary of Chopin's birth in spring 2010. In May 2010, Dai Yi was a winner in the Julia Crane Concerto Competition and she is going to perform her recital in Binghamton Tri-Cities Opera Center in March 2011.
